The model number of this battery is BW 8D. Sealed lead-acid batteries (SLA) come in two variants: either gel or absorbent glass mat -- this indicates the material inside the battery itself. This battery is the AGM variant.

All SLA batteries are maintenance-free, can be used in any orientation, and are leakproof. They are exceedingly safe because they use a valve regulator to safely vent pressure. (You may see SLA batteries also referred to VRLA, valve-regulated lead-acid.) In addition, these batteries have a wide operating temperature, a long service life, and the ability to recover from a deep discharge.
