Discover Advanced Tubular batteries feature NAT grids and multi-tube gauntlets that encapsulate the positive plate active material resulting in cyclic stability, longer life and higher capacity than flat plate batteries.

The grid structure of the lead acid battery is made from lead alloy. As we know pure lead is very soft and we add small quantities of other metals like antimony, calcium, tin and selenium etc. that help the battery to recover fast from deep discharge.

Check the water level of battery after every two months. maintained the the water level in between the maximum and minimum water limit. Always top-up the battery with distilled water. Do not use tap water or rainwater as it contains excess minerals and impurities which affect the life and performance of the battery.

Batteries at UTL employ PE separators instead of ordinary PVC separators. The PE separators last longer and give better results which leads to longer and much enhanced battery life.

UTL is totally confident we and can challenge any one on the basis of long backup time of our products. Our batteries provide the users with higher backup as compared to any other battery of similar rating. We are loyal to our customers and strive continuously to always deliver in the best way possible.
