Back Stick Electric is a partnership between two good friends and soccer teammates, Thor Hansgen and Ian Rowberry. Together, they offer a wide range of electrical and renewable energy services to homeowners and businesses in Kingston and the surrounding area.

Thor is a licensed Master Electrician with a solid reputation in the trade, while Ian is a certified Energy Systems Engineering Technologist with a strong background in grid-tied solar power. Both have been working in the field for over ten years, and now bring their on-field chemistry to your electrical projects.
