I am retired now, but about ten years ago I was designing solar installations of all sizes, using mainly your inverters. But for all my studying this 3324 manual I can not fully grasp, what is possible using it. Thank you for your time in advance.

Have SMA updated this for use with LiFePo4 batteries? If this item can not accept LiFePo4 then it's out of date. Can the battery charger be turned off, so I can use it with an external LiFePo4 battery charger?

I really want to buy, but every time I email SMA with a simple question I get no reply, or I get shown the link to the manual, but no answer to any of my question. The manual is written in very bad English. 5 words used when one would suffice. Over the top, designed to confuse.

Please get back to us with more information regarding the region you are looking for support so that we can take special care of your inquiry. First of all, you can find the latest information on our Sunny Island battery inverters here.

Hello, I am in the UK. I have spent a lot of money buying this inverter, and it will not run with lifpo4 batteries, therefore I have to turn the internal battery charger off, and use an external lifepo4 charger. Here's the simple question, Can I turn off the charger in the SMA 4.4? I have looked at both of the links and they do not answer my question.
