By experiencing the style, color, and texture of specific tiles, designers can make more informed decisions. Furthermore, you can conveniently order samples directly through our website as you browse designs.

Our website enables discerning designers and architects to source tiles based on criteria such as large format porcelain floor tiles or bespoke options. Moreover, the H& E Smith brochures are conveniently downloadable from the samples/brochure page.

Established in 1926 as Smith & Warrilow by William Henry Smith and Ernest Warrilow, the company initially specialized in refractory glazed tiles for fireplaces, later transitioning to high-quality, traditionally crafted English ceramic wall tiles.

The current name resulted from a company restructuring following Ernest Warrilow's retirement. As a specialist tile manufacturer, the company has a long-standing reputation for supplying ceramic tiles to the London Underground, where reliable production schedules, quality, and precision are crucial for efficient service.

Our Eco-Glazed Brick Slips are becoming more and more popular. Due to their eco-friendly properties, ease of application and durability they are a great choice for both internal and external applications. A popular choice amongst architects and interior designers. You can visit our dedicated brick slip website here. Our extensive experience with bespoke ceramic manufacturing has significantly enhanced our ability to collaborate closely with interior designers and specifiers.

Consequently, this has led to our large, worldwide client base in the fashion and restaurant sectors. This includes brands like Ben Sherman, Ted Baker, and Christian Louboutin, Jamie Oliver, Nandos, Hawksmoor, and Byron restaurants.

Furthermore, the business expansion has served as a catalyst over the past few years. As a specialist tile manufacturer, our deep market knowledge has enabled us to expand our product offerings.

This included the latest inkjet digital technology, innovative materials, and extra-large formats. Moreover, our range includes ultrathin porcelain panels and vast colour palettes, all accessible through one easy process.

As passionate designers and creators of ceramics, we continually explore new horizons. This involves reviewing materials, colours, and textures, which are reflected in our comprehensive product ranges. In addition, samples can be ordered through our website and dispatched within hours.
