Specializing in large commercial and utility-scale projects, solar farms, etc. We partner with solar installers, contractors, real estate developers around the world that want to recycle excess new and used / old solar inverters and equipment.

In general, used solar inverters that are still functional and are less than ten years old can be worth a significant sum of money. A used 10-kW solar inverter from a well-known brand could still be worth several thousand dollars.

However, you basically need to do everything by yourself with this option: You will need to take multiple clear and good photos of the solar inverter, write a detailed listing, and answer any questions from potential buyers.

Some solar panel (and solar inverter) manufacturers may be willing to buy back solar inverters of their own brand. They may want to refurbish them or sell them as refurbished/reconditioned units, or they may use them for parts.

Try contacting your solar inverter's manufacturer and ask whether they are interested in buying your used equipment. They may have a specific process for accepting your used inverter, so it's important to follow their instruction.

Not only Solar Recycling(TM) will purchase solar inverters at a fair, competitive price, but it will also offer other advantages. Basically, Solar Recycling(TM) will take care of every step of the sales process for you, from handling all the paperwork to shipping.

The difficulty of selling solar inverters can vary depending on several factors, including but not limited to market demand, compatibility, condition, pricing, and others. You should especially consider the following:

However, in most cases, selling used solar inverters should be manageable with the right approach. Make sure to research the market, accurately provide enough information, and price them competitively, so you can sell the solar inverter faster and easier.
