Wind generator installers near me

Wind turbines are an increasingly popular way to power your home sustainably. So if you're keen to harness the benefits of renewable energy, here's how to find the best wind turbine installers near you.

As we've already touched upon, a small wind turbine might not generate enough energy for your home. So, if your goal is to be fully off-grid using this source alone, a small wind turbine might not be right for your needs.

On the other hand, if you're happy to use your wind turbine to supplement your existing energy supply, it could be well worth installing. You could even put your turbine to another use aside from energy generation; for instance, wind turbines can be used to pump water for irrigation!

There are several factors that will affect the cost of wind turbine installation near you. These include the type, size and manufacturer of your wind turbine, as well as site-specific conditions.

As a rough guide, the average cost of a roof-mounted domestic wind turbine is around £2,000. Meanwhile, freestanding wind turbine prices range from around £7,000 for a 1.5 kW turbine to around £70,000 for a 15 kW one.

To help reduce the initial cost of installing a home wind turbine, some companies will pay you ground rent for allowing them to install a turbine on your property. Alternatively, some installers offer the opportunity to split the initial investment 50/50 in return for splitting the benefits.

You may also be able to earn money by selling excess electricity back to the grid. The Energy Saving Trust estimates that a well-sited 6kW freestanding home turbine could earn you about £400 per year by selling the surplus electricity to the grid.

An experienced renewable energy consultant will conduct a feasibility study for your wind turbine installation. This includes factors such as wind speed, location, proximity to neighbouring properties, and visual impact.
